Gentlemen:

I have, as executor of an estate, a gold sovereign, on the face of which appears "Georgius IV Gratia 1826".

May I trouble you to inform me whether this is considered a rare coin and, if so, what its value is in excess of the fixed gold value and whether you know of a likely purchaser?

Very truly yours,

Dear Sir:

In reply to your letter of December 4th with regard to a George IV sovereign of 1826, we can only say without seeing it that it has in all probability no special value over face. I would suggest your taking it to Messrs. Guttag Brothers, 18 Exchange Place, and find out from them what they would offer you for it - that would determine its appraisal value.

Very truly yours,

Curator
